OPTION 1

Create a BuzzFeed Article called "5 Perfect Days in Japan"

Remember that BuzzFeed is designed to be eye catching. Your article should be colorful, fun, and interesting. You can use Docs to create or something like Canva or even Powtoon to make your article more exciting.

Your article should include:

1. 5 locations in Japan to visit (5 points)
2. A description (2-3 sentences) of each location and its significance (10 points)
  - ★ Each description should include what the location is, what you are going to see there, and how it relates to social studies.
  - ★ Locations 1 and 2: How does the location represent influence from China, Korea, or India?
  - ★ Location 3: How does the location relate to the Golden Age of Japan?
  - ★ Location 4: How does the location represent samurai culture?
  - ★ Location 5 (your choice): Why do you want to visit this location?
3. An image of each location (5 points)
4. A gif or meme for each location to make your article more fun and interesting (5 points)

OPTION 2

Plan a Field Trip

Use Google Tour Builder and Google Docs to plan a 5 day trip of Japan

Step 1: Create the Tour

1. Go to Google Tour Builder and input each location you labeled on your map. Make sure the link takes you directly to your location. (10 points)

Make sure you plan the trip in a logical order: you want to make sure there is as little travel time in-between locations. You don't want to spend the entire trip travelling back and forth across the island!

Step 2: Create the Itinerary: Create a Google Doc (or another platform you like) to detail your trip.

1. Decide which airport to fly into and out of based on where you are starting and ending your trip. (2 points)

2. List and describe each location you are going to visit in the order you will visit them. (10 points)

- ★ Each description should include what the location is, what you are going to see there, and how it relates to social studies.
- ★ Locations 1 and 2: How does the location represent influence from China, Korea, or India?
- ★ Location 3: How does the location relate to the Golden Age of Japan?
- ★ Location 4: How does the location represent samurai culture?
- ★ Location 5 (your choice): Why do you want to visit this location?

3. In between each location description write how long it will take to get to the next location. (3 points)
